FESTIVE SEASON MESSAGE - 2020

Mr. Namane Dickson Masemola
MEC: Public Works, Roads and Infrastructure

The festive season for this relatively difficult year is finally upon us. It is during this period that most of us are used to engaging in various festivities that mark the end of the year and the beginning of what would be hoped to be a successful new year. We call upon everyone to enjoy responsibly and close the year with less or no difficulties.

The Year 2020 has not been an easy one, with the world battling the scourge of COVID-19 which has impacted badly on lives, economies and livelihoods. As we embark on the path to recovery through implementation of infrastructure projects, we require the contribution of everyone and every sector in the New Year 2021. We aim to rejuvenate and reconstruct livelihoods through the creation of jobs as we drive an Infrastructure-led Economic Recovery.

It is therefore very important that we stay responsible and safe, strengthen the fight against Domestic Violence, Gender Based Violence and Femicide, and continue to adhere to the COVID-19 safety protocols as strictly as possible.

Stay Home, Stay Safe, Keep physical distance, Sanitize and wash your hands regularly!

Have a Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year 2021!

ROAD INFRASTRUCTURE STAKEHOLDER ENGAGEMENT

M

Masemola hosted a stakeholder engagement feedback session at Bolivia Lodge which was well received by stakeholders' faces as they got progress concerning promised road infrastructure projects after waiting for a long time. The session was attended by representatives from district and local municipalities, traditional leaders, councilors, community development structures, steering committees and community leaders.

MEC Masemola had visited several roads as part of conducting oversight on the state of the road network in the communities. "The process for acquiring construction service is underway to ensure that the state of the roads is ultimately improved" said Masemola while addressing the gathering on what the department is currently doing to finalize the process towards maintaining the roads.

Masemola took the initiative to lead from the front and not only react when communities start protesting and demanding answers. He pleaded with the community leaders to advise communities not to destroy existing infrastructure during protest for service delivery of any kind.

True to his commitment, MEC Masemola further visited Mashabela and Magadimane Traditional Council offices in the Fetakgomo-Tubatse Local Municipality to introduce to them contractors who have been appointed to commence work on the road D4180, D4220 and D4185, this network links communities with Polokwane and Burgersfort.

The 19.7km stretch of road is expected to be completed by November 2021.

The visit was one of many which MEC Masemola embarked on in the effort to improve the state of road infrastructure and experience firsthand what road users go through on daily basis. He continued to roads such as D3184 access road to Modjadji Royal House in Greater Letaba Local Municipality, D959 and D3715 under Makhado Local Municipality even Masisi-Makuya road in Thulamela Local Municipality were amongst those MEC engaged steering committee members in the presence of the municipal and traditional leadership.

The stakeholders appreciated the initiative of the MEC for proactively reaching out to them and keeping them updated about developments.

The MEC cautioned community members against divisions, infighting and fraudulently enriching themselves as it will cause progress delays, however encouraged them to work together and form steering committees which will liaise with contractor on behalf of the community, ensure fair trade representation from both traditional councils, adequate job-opportunities and accountability. Moreover the steering committee will ensure timeous completion of the project, as long as they work together in unity with the contractor, municipality and the department via RAL.

RAL and local municipalities were tasked to liaise with both traditional councils representatives, for meeting where issues of labour employment and SMMEs opportunities will be discussed with the contractor.

BENEFITS TO COMMUNITIES

The National Treasury Preferential Procurement Regulations of 2017 states that successful contract bidders on contracts are expected to sub-contract a minimum of 30% (on upgrading project), 15% (on the preventative maintenance or rehabilitation/resurfacing projects) of contract value to small businesses in adjacent villages to the project sites and 10% of the contract value should be used for employment of local labourers in areas where road upgrades and preventative maintenance projects are undertaken.

LDPWRI STRATEGIZING TOWARDS NEW HEIGHTS

MEC Masemola giving address during the Strategic Planning Session at BelaBela Forever Resort

By Thulare Bopape

The Strategic planning session was held in Waterberg District with the aim of reviewing the departmental mission, vision and values, as well as planning for the long term goals and actions to help the department strategize for a better system to respond to the needs of the its stakeholders.

The session broke into commissions made of four departmental programmes; EPWP, Projects, Roads and Administration to come up with innovative ideas which will take the department forward. The main focus of the session was to craft the plans for the 2021/22 financial year and seriously engage on plans to improve implementation also looking at the impact of COVID-19 in the infrastructure sector and job creation.

MEC Namane Dickson Masemola encouraged the administrative leadership of the department to do all it takes to ensure better delivery of infrastructure in the province and lead like the 'revolutionary bureaucrats'. "Respect for the people in whose name we serve is very key, and being in positions of employment means that you are a primary motive force of the National Democratic Revolution" said MEC Masemola.

MEC outlined how as the administrative leadership should chart a path for taking forward the delivery, maintenance and rehabilitation of infrastructure in the province. GENDER BASED VIOLENCE A REALITY

Don't suffer in silence, speak against gender based violence.

To make up for any difference in strength, they may attack you while you're asleep or otherwise catch you by surprise. They may also use a weapon, such as a gun or knife, or strike you with an object, abuse or threaten your children, or harm your pets.

Of course, domestic abuse is not limited to violence. Emotional and verbal abuse can be just as damaging. As a male, your spouse or partner may:

- ◆ Verbally abuse you, belittle you, or humiliate you in front of friends, colleagues, or family, or on social media.
- ◆ Be possessive, act jealous, or harass you with accusations of being unfaithful.
- ◆ Take away your car keys or medications, try to control where you go and who you see.

Try to control how you spend money or deliberately default on joint financial obligations
COVID -19 pandemic brought a rise in all sexes experiencing gender-based violence as the lock down regulations forced most victims to live in the same environment as their perpetrators.

As a society, we should try and find out what is driving gender based violence and what needs to be done to curb this ruthless pandemic. It is the small things that you say, the small actions that will ultimately create a bigger picture that will lead to violence against each other. As South Africans we must proclaim and say that it is possible and achievable that that we will change and be better citizens. It is not too late

What does democracy mean if we cannot be safe even in our own homes? This is a serious challenge. As we celebrate all those nice things that this country has produced during the past years, we also need to take cognisance of this scar that continues to be a scourge that requires urgent attention.

If you're a man in an abusive relationship, it's important to know that you're not alone. Abuse of men happens far more often than you might expect—in both heterosexual and same sex relationships. It happens to men from all cultures and all walks of life regardless of age or occupation.

Figures suggest that as many as one in three victims of domestic violence are male. However, men are often reluctant to report abuse because they feel embarrassed, fear they won't be believed, or are scared that their partner will take revenge.

An abusive partner may hit, kick, bite, punch, spit, throw things, or destroy your possessions.

There are various Non-Profit Organizations (some mentioned below) that help men deal with thorny issues of abuse.

- Akonaho Victim Empowerment Program 079 117 5677 akonahovep@gmail.com
- South African Male Survivors of Sexual Abuse (SAMSO) 071 280 9918 www.samsosa.org
- Women and Men against Child Abuse (011) 789 8815 www.wmaca.org
- Society Against Abuse of Men South Africa (Domestic Abuse Treatment Centre) 083 686 0717
- Matrixmen (010) 900 3048 or 078 457 4911 or martin@matrixmen.org or www.matrixmen.org
- Safer Spaces www.saferpaces.org.za or contact@saferpaces.org.za—has about 175 NPOs registered with them who deals with issues of gender based violence etc.

GET the FACTS About Mental Health

By Jennifer Mudau

Mental health is about balancing our biological, emotional, psychological, as well as social well-being. It affects how we think, feel and act. It also helps determine how we handle stress, relate to others, and make choices. From imbalance therefore, there might be symptoms, including behavioral, emotional, biological, as well as social symptoms. If this imbalance continues indefinitely, one might experience mental distress which can lead to mental illness.

WARNING SIGNS OF MENTAL DISTRESS:

Emotional signs:

- Crying over nothing
- Feeling 'not there'
- Forgetfulness
- Guilt
- Irritability
- Intrusive thoughts
- Anger/outburst
- Feeling like a burden
- Feelings of helplessness/hopelessness
- Isolation
- Anxiety
- Suicidal ideation – thoughts of death and suicide

Physical/Behavioral signs:

- Noticeable increase/decrease in appetite
- Weight loss/gain without dieting

- Problems falling/staying asleep
- Fatigue
- Loss of libido/sex drive
- Body aches/headaches
- Increased sweating
- Struggling to complete daily tasks (including maintaining hygiene)
- Restlessness
- Difficulty concentrating
- Heart palpitations
- Increased substance use

Though we might feel embarrassed by our symptoms, we're by no means the only one who live with them. And we don't have to cope with mental distress alone.

WHERE TO GET PROFESSIONAL HELP:

“have YOUR say”

In your view, how has the new normal affected your life?

Mr Masenya Mokone—Employment Relations

We are afraid of it and it is still new to us and we are clueless about it. It is air-borne so for me issues of social distancing and this disease being air-borne is still confusing.

Ms Nozipho Nkosi—
Planning and Design

As people we are social being and not having to hug or shake hands has been one of the challenges and not being able to gather and support each other with all the losses due to COVID 19, but as a resilient nation we will get through it.

Ms Mosibudi Malatji—Organizational Development

COVID-19 taught us to be more hygienic as now we are used to washing our hands most of the time. Even to use technology on our daily lives e.g. Google Classroom and Zoom

Ms Queen Mabunda—Construction Project Management

A challenging year, new rules that you have to follow for you to survive. But we thank God and we believe that it will pass and will get used to the rules and regulations. Disabled perspective and being International Day of People with Disability it was a challenging because you find it difficult to use sanitizer stand—as it is not user friendly. But I am happy that the department tried to accommodate us by making sure we have sanitizers on our table.

Ms Nonzwakazi Marapyana—Roads Infrastructure

I miss family gatherings and seeing elders, now because I am always exposed to COVID I can't visit my grand-parents freely. I even miss applying my lipstick, after all you are never fully dressed without lipstick.

Mr Kgomo Pat—Knowledge and Information Management

COVID-19 comes with new challenges for all of us. During Lockdown level 5, one got an opportunity to get closer to the family and also meditate about oneself. The new norm made us work differently with the advent of Zoom meetings.

Mr Molatelo Matlou—Mechanical Services

The new normal in my view has affected all human-life, such that even the most routine activities of an individual suffered a great challenge. There are certain set backs and losses that people experience, while still trying to adapt to the new way of living. Productivity in the workplace has been affected during the early stages of the lockdown. Fortunately, we have now developed a healthy living style, people are on a day-to-day basis engaged in maintaining their physical fitness, eating healthy food. We now have the privilege of using face masks and hand sanitizers.

Should I wear a mask?

- Yes.
- Your mask protects me, my mask protects you.
- Science, not politics.
